

I Shona Jatta a very lucky girls now doing the nursing program at the school of nursing under the Gambia College located at Banjul.

Upon completing grade twelve and having acceptance at the college to do the nursing program, considering my family's financial background it made it impossible for me to start because the money to pay and start was not available with all the efforts to get support could not work for me.

The efforts of my cousin Alima in getting support or sponsor through Lilian from the health watchers association made the impossibility a possibility for me to pay and start.

One fine day, as I was so desperate thinking of what the future holds for me as far as pursuing the nursing program is concern, Alima came and told me that Ensa called her to find out about the possibility for my family to support me in doing the program which she told him that there is no possibility for them to support me. Ensa later called me and equally discussed with my family but realized that my family can't help me.

A day or two later, Ensa called to invite Alima and I to the school where he lives upon our arrival and having a little discussion with him, then later he called Claus we both talked to him on facetime then I realized that I will get support from the health watchers association. Claus, his family and Lilian agreed to pay for me to pursue the nursing program. It was just like pulling out the stress, burden, and the obstacle out of me. There I realized that, there are very good and kind hearted people in the world.

I am now smoothly doing the program. These people did not just only pay the tuition fee but also bought uniform, laptop, a national identification card for me and paid for my accommodation at the college as well.

I have also made a promise to try me level best to keep up to expectations, read very hard to produce good results.

Thank you all for the support!!!
